By BRYAN MORSE.

With one-half the Interscholastic Basketball League schedule completed, players and followers are wondering if any of the teams will be able to bounce Western out of the lead. Comparative records in the fifteen games run off show the Red and White athletes far in the van as figures go, although there are those who maintain that Army and Navy Prep, Business, and Central have a chance to come forward in the closing days of the campaign.

Western has been closely pressed on but one occasion and that was when the Army and Navy Preps played them to a 35 to 29 battle. The Preps were never in the lead extend itself as in no other contest the team was admittedly not in the best of shape. The Georgetown boys set an unusually high standard on both offense and defense as the figures show and possess not only the two best shooters in the league, but guards which have held down the opposition to small figures.
